Ask Eve: Holiday Lights

Q: For our holiday gift exchange I drew the name of someone in the office who uses candles all the time. I'm sure she already has a ton of candles. What else could I give her?

A: Knowing your colleague loves candles makes her easy to shop for! We have many options to suggest – and all are gifts she can keep long after many candles have burned.

- The Zippo MPL (Multi-Purpose Lighter) is a stylish way to light candles. $24.99 (includes a free butane refill)
- Even candles get dressed up for the holiday season! This fruited sugar wreath turns a basic pillar candle into a stunning centerpiece. $12.99 (Also available as a door wreath and napkin rings.)
- With ruby red and emerald green beading, this candlesnuffer is as beautiful as it is festive! $9.99

Table Wear

For the holiday season, the best-dressed tables are decked out with exquisite, silver-plated napkin rings that look like antique drawer pulls. They also double as great place-card holders. We love them because they're great for holiday entertaining, but versatile enough to use throughout the year for any special dinner. $9.99 each

Whether you're feeding your family a December dinner or hosting a holiday open house, it's easy to add some festive red to your table.

Even a single red item can have a huge impact! Deep red ceramic serving pieces such as veggie dishes, platters and a water jug make a bold statement.

But don't put your new dishes away when the holidays are over. If you don't want to use red dishes everyday, you can still use them throughout the year for Valentine's, Canada Day and other special occasions. They look great when used with red and white gingham napkins and a matching tablecloth for summer barbecues.

Each piece is sold separately, priced from $5.99 to $39.99. Mugs, luncheon plates and other pieces are also available.
